

QC0015SN - The Sands of Time

Difficult discussions in marriage can quickly get heated. They heat up when...

- When you don't feel heard or understood.
- When you keep getting corrected and interrupted.
- When you can't get a word in or you withhold your views.

If this happens regularly in your marriage, then this simple little technique I call "The Sands of Time" will help you get through and improve upon those times.

This technique is not meant to solve all disagreements. It's merely a way to help spouses feel heard and understood. When this happens, problems and conflicts are much easier to address.
